STORM AND HAIL ALL OVER COUNTY

FIRST M. E. CHURCH IN MARYVILLE STRUCK.

LIGHTNING DESTROYS BARN NEAR ELMO

2.5-inch Rain Causes All Streams to Leave Banks—Heavy Ice Fall in Spots.

Residents of Nodaway county were given their most realistic reproduction of last summer between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning, when a two and a half inch rain fell accompanied by an electrical storm of considerable violence and with much hail.

The storm was not so bad as the worst one in July of last year, but some report the "hen-egg" sized hail stones and a continual flashing of lightning with considerable thunder kept most of Maryville awake.

The tower of the First Methodist church was struck by lightning this morning during the rain, hail and electric storm. The bolt evidently hit a tin ledge at the lower part of the roof at the northeast corner of the tower, as the tin is badly bent.

A few feet lower on the north side of the tower the board lattice is split in many places. On the east side of the tower the bolt took a zigzag course from the first stone ledge to the entrance door, leaving a crack in the wall and in two places knocking a number of bricks out with such force that they were thrown to the edge of the paving on the street.

The stone ledges were about an inch out of plumb and the window casings are split. No fire was started as the bolt seems to have stayed on the outside of the building all the way down.

May Rainfall Now 9.22.

With the heaviest rain of the year last night, the precipitation for May stands at 9.22 inches now, with seven more days to come. The 102 river is out over the low places again today but is not quite so high as it was at one time last week.

All farmers and those interested in agriculture are more pessimistic than they have been in years. After a poor season last year, every one hoped for a good crop this year. Little of the corn is in the ground, however, and most of what has been planted has been washed out or the cutworms, which thrive in this kind of weather, have ruined it.

All of May has also been remarkably cool and growing things have not grown rapidly as they should. Except in isolated places fruit and vegetables do not seem to be badly hurt by the hails which have accompanied the rains several times.

McMahon Barn Burns Down.

A small barn on the farm of John McMahon, two and a half miles north of Elmo, was struck during the storm last night and burned to the ground. All of the stock was rescued before it was injured but considerable hay and grain was destroyed. Robert Reynolds was living on the place. It was a small barn, being 16 by 24 feet.

Reports from over the county is that many small bridges were washed out by the overflow last night. All of the rivers and small streams left their banks last night and lowered very slowly today. All crops were badly washed also, according to the county-wide reports.

The hail was general over the county but the heaviest part of the ice fall seems to have taken a path from northwest to southeast. It was local in all cases, however. It was light at Graham and Quitman but heavy at Burlington Junction and Clearmont.

The window panes were broken in the Hedrig home, one and a half miles west of Conception Junction, where the hail was heavy and the stones very large. Hopkins reports a heavy hail. Guilford reports a light fall in the town but very heavy four miles east.

102 River Rising Today.

City employees at the pump station report this afternoon that the 102 began to rise before dinner and was running over the road by the middle of the afternoon, being a foot higher than it has been before this year.

The Platte and Nodaway rivers also are out but not so high as the 102. If it continues to rise later in the afternoon, it will not be possible to cross the 102 by tonight. Reports from along the north part of the river is that it is very high and that worse floods may be expected.

The cement wall in the Garfield ward school yard was almost washed down last night but is still standing with all the supporting earth gone.

BURLINGTON JUNCTION WANTED MARYVILLE LIGHTS.

CO. HERE NOW IN CHARGE

The Maryville Electric Light and Power Company is in charge of the former city plant at Burlington Junction today. All the materials for building a line from Maryville have been ordered and work will be begun as soon as possible.

The vote yesterday in favor of selling the municipal plant there to the Maryville company and giving them a franchise for furnishing the service was 138 for and only 4 against. The vote polled was only a medium sized balloting. It will now be necessary for the proposition to be approved by the state public utilities commission but no difficulty is expected.

The new line will be the same as that recently constructed to Pickering, in fact the same line will be used for more than 5 miles, the Burlington Junction line branching off a mile south of the Collins Denny corner.

An effort will be made toward extending the service to Clearmont soon and giving that town 24-hour service also. Nothing definite has been done along this line yet. The fight for the new ownership in Burlington Junction was led by Walter Mendenhall of the Burlington Junction Post.

STIFEL BEATS HADLEY

G. O. P. TURNS DOWN FORMER GOVERNOR FOR BREWER.

Charles Nagel, Anheuser-Busch Attorney and Former Cabinet Member for Vice President.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

St. Louis, May 24.—Otto F. Stifel of St. Louis, well known millionaire brewer, was made chairman last night of the Missouri delegation to the Republican national convention. He defeated former Gov. Hadley of Missouri by a vote of 21 to 7. Eight of the thirty-six Missouri delegates to the national convention were absent from the caucus and proxies were not allowed.

Thomas R. Marks of Kansas City made a hard fight for Hadley, saying that the former governor was the biggest asset of the Republican party of Missouri.

Sentiment for the nomination of Charles Nagel of St. Louis for vice president was pressed among the delegates who attended the caucus, but Nagel requested that his name be not voted on at present and suggested that the Missouri delegation await developments at the Chicago convention. Nagel was secretary of commerce and labor in the Taft cabinet.

Resolutions, Berryman Henwood; permanent organization, W. S. Wade; credentials, Harry Clymer; to notify presidential nominee, W. P. Sullivan; to notify vice presidential nominee, David W. Peters; rules and order of business, C. C. Madison.

Hadley Tells of Defeat.

Herbert S. Hadley last night gave out a statement concerning his defeat for chairman of the Missouri delegation to the national Republican convention in Chicago in St. Louis yesterday. He said:

"I consented to the use of my name only because my friends thought I might in that way help to defeat the control of the delegation by E. L. Morse. I had the voluntary assurance of support from a majority of the delegation against Tenwood, Morse's original candidate, and this fact doubtless caused his withdrawal and the substitution of Stifel.

"It is, of course, of no importance who holds the committee assignment, but it is of importance as to what influences and methods control the party organization.

"I do not believe this vote indicates in any way the sentiment of the delegation on president, and whether the Morse-Babler-Howe-Stifel combination shall further extend its control of party affairs will be a question for the Republican voters to decide in the August primaries."

RECOVERS BIG AUTO

CAR STUCK IN MUD BELONGED TO K. C. MAN.

THIEVES ABANDONED IT

Three Men of Whom There Is No Trace Probably Went to Omaha Monday Night.

Raymond D. Watson of Kansas City will soon be driving his Hudson Super Six again, thanks to Sheriff Ed Wallace, James Vert and the chief of detectives of St. Joseph. The car was stolen from Ninth and McGee in Kansas City Saturday morning.

James Vert, living northwest of Maryville, reported to Sheriff Wallace Monday morning that a large car had been abandoned by the occupants in a side road about ten miles northwest of this city. When he arrived there the sheriff judged at once that the car had been stolen.

A phone message with the numbers of the car to the police department at St. Joseph revealed that it was the property of a Kansas City man and the owner was notified. The car was brought to Sewell's garage yesterday.

Fred A. Graybill of Kansas City arrived here on the noon train and took charge of the car. He is a representative of an insurance company, having a policy on the car. It will be returned to Kansas City as soon as possible.

Three men were in the automobile. It is believed that they took an evening train for Omaha Monday. It is known that they inquired at a farmhouse near where they left the car for the nearest road to Wilcox. No further trace of the thieves is available at this time.

The car was very new, having been received from the factory but little over two weeks. It has had a "jinx" from the start, however, the fifth tire having been stolen from it within the first week. It has not been recovered.

E. L. GRAVES MAKES GOOD

MUSKOGEE PAPER SPEAKS HIGHLY OF MARYVILLE BOY.

Son of Mrs. Eunice Graves Built Up Large Investment Business—Now in Law Offices.

Eugene L. Graves, a son of Mrs. Eunice Graves of this city, and well known here and over the county, is making good at Muskogee, Okla. The following clipping of his success is from a Muskogee paper of recent date:

The success attained by E. L. Graves, whose offices are located at 202 Court House Building, is most unusual. About twelve years ago he became manager of the Deming Investment company's business in Muskogee. In fact, he practically started the business in this city, which was at that time conducted in a very modest way, and under his careful and aggressive management the business has made rapid progress and is today one of the most substantial companies of its kind in this part of the state. Mr. Graves continued with the Deming Investment Company until three and one-half years ago, when he entered business for himself.

He is an attorney at law and makes a specialty of land titles. He also makes loans, principally on farm properties, and is a negotiator of first mortgage loans. He is one of the best informed men on land titles in this county. His judgment on land titles is considered authority. In fact, he has never made a bad loan.

Mr. Graves has been very successful in all his business undertakings and the scrupulous and honorable way in which he has always done business entitles him to the largest measure of public confidence. He is a public spirited man and takes a deep interest in Muskogee and her advancement.

CONTESTS ARE CLOSE

McREYNOLDS GETS ONLY PLACE FOR EUREKANS.

MILLER IS ESSAY WINNER

Miss Ive Barnes Given Declamation Honor—Into State Competition Next Year.

In last night's oratorical and declamation contests at the Normal the Eurekan and Philomathean Literary societies divided honors. The Eurekans winning the Oratorical contest and the Philos the declamatory contest.

Charles McReynolds, won the oratorical contest on his selection, "The Cost of Luxury," but the contest was very close, with William Utter, a close second. The individual rankings were 4 and 5 while the percentages were 91 1-3 and 91.

The Excelsior representative, Warren Vanscoy, got third place, with a ranking of 90. Prosecuting Attorney Sawyers in speaking of Mr. McReynolds, said, "Say, that man is sure a go-getter." The vote was 2 and 1. The judges were: Mrs. Berney Harris, Miss Keeler and Prof. Westbrook. The former two voting together.

CHARLES H. McREYNOLDS.

In the declamatory contest, Miss Ivah Barnes of the Philos won on a close margin over Miss Elizabeth Sobbing, the Eurekan representative. The vote was 2 and 1.

Miss Ruth Sweet was the Excelsior representative. The individual rankings were, 4, 5 and 9, respectively. The percentages were, 92 2-3, 92 1-3 and 83 2-3 respectively. Miss Barnes has a great deal of natural ability and her reading was great.

Excelsior Showed Creditably.

The interest in last night's contest was increased by the fact that the Excelsiors, a new society, was represented. Although they failed to place, it was the general consensus of opinion that a creditable showing was made.

The charm of the contest lies in the fact that neither society won honors easily. In Monday night's debate the Philos won by a very close two to one vote.

Henry Miller of the Philomatheans won first place in the essay. Mahala

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, May 24.—That Carranza is deliberately trying to force an open break with the United States in order to bolster up his fast falling prestige, is the opinion in official circles here. The latest demand for immediate withdrawal has incensed even those officials who have tolerated his attitude.

Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions

By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Exponent of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill

Helpful Cake Making Hints

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K C Baking Powder.

Biscuit Helps

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board.

With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C. 39

POLITICAL NOTES.

Democratic Press Bureau.

It isn't a good idea to "swap hosses in the middle of the stream," and the people of this country are not going to change administrations in the midst of a world crisis. No other nation on earth would think of doing such a thing.

Under President Wilson's administration wages in this country have reached the highest point in the history of the world.

The accumulation of gold in the United States has reached the enormous total of two billions of dollars—a greater amount than was ever held before by any two nations together. And still there are people who say that the Democratic party has not given us a business administration!

The Republican brewery politicians of St. Louis are having a hard time selecting a Republican candidate for governor. But nobody else seems to care whether the Republicans nominate a candidate for governor or not.

WAR WOMEN'S JOBS PROBLEM

Men Returning Will Want Places Back and Present Incumbents Will Object.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Paris, May 25.—The question of what the fate of the women of France will be after the war is generally occupying the French mind.

Monsieur Brieux, the well known author of "La Femme Soule" and member of the French academy, writes on this subject:

"When our soldiers return from the front and have received all the honors due them and hung up their laurel wreaths, they will want to take up again their old occupations, but they will then find their places occupied by women who have been forced by necessity to take up this work and who will have to be persuaded to get out.

"The women will say: 'I have grown used to making my own living. I can perform work on which you thought me incapable and I have proved it. I have become accustomed to the feeling of independence which a salary gives. I am here and here I will remain. Go away and leave me alone.'

"The men will answer: 'The war is over, I have suffered out there while defending my country, my freedom and my right to work. I have come back glorious. I was tired, but now I have had a rest. Give me back my position.'

"Men and women will both be right and it is always when two adversaries are both right that the fight becomes most bitter."

BALK AT MARRIAGE

WARMLY GREETED ON VISIT.

Alexander Makes Great Impression For Himself and His People, but Rumor of a Wife Hunt Causes Many to Place Themselves on Guard Against Any Matrimonial Talk.

London. — Alexander, crown prince and regent of Servia, has been in England hunting a wife, it is rumored, as well as seeking political and financial assistance in recovering his country. He made a great impression and created a warm sentimeent for himself and his people. But fathers with marriageable daughters, from King George downward, did not appear anxious to meet any matrimonial advances from the prince. He went to Buckingham palace and was entertained by the king and queen. Prince Albert was delegated to meet him at the station and to see him off when he departed. But Princess Mary did not come in contact with him.

The hesitation manifested by English fathers and mothers of high degree to an alliance with Prince Alexander is largely caused by the uncertainty of his ever sitting upon the throne of his father and the certainty of his living in constant danger of his life if he ever is able to return to Belgrade. It has taken some time for England to overcome its feeling of repugnance to the prince and his father, King Peter having always been held responsible for the murder of King Alexander and Queen Draga, whose deaths removed the obstacles in the way of his own accession, while Prince Alexander was blamed primarily for the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg. The prince's gallant conduct in the war and the general feeling in England that the British government was responsible for unwisely advising the Servian army to resist the invaders and hold out until the allies sent re-enforcements have created a reversion of feeling in his favor.

CROWN PRINCE ALEXANDER.

The government took pains not to involve England in any way with the affairs of Servia except as relating to this war. The prince was the guest of Lord Kitchener, and at York House Prince Alexander met Sir Edward Grey, the secretary of foreign affairs, in a party which included the Earl of Derby and Walter Long, both members of the government. Sir Edward Grey was likewise present at the dinner given in honor of the prince by Lewis Harcourt on behalf of the government. The Marquis of Crewe, leader of the government in the house of lords, presided at this dinner. The Russian ambassador, the Japanese ambassador, the Belgian minister, the Portuguese minister, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Lord Kitchener, Arthur Balfour, Walter Runciman, Lord Robert Cecil, General Sir William Robertson and the lord chancellor were present.

Sir Edward Grey was also upon the platform at Victoria station when Prince Alexander, accompanied by Prince Albert and Lord Kitchener, arrived to take the train for the coast and embark for the continent. The foreign secretary of the British government did not entertain the prince regent of Servia at any official hospitality. And, although the prince regent was accompanied by his prime minister, M. Pashitch, they were not received or entertained by the British prime minister, Mr. Asquith.

Seldom has any visiting royalty ever received in England such a deputation of distinguished men in different walks of life as waited upon Prince Alexander at his hotel.

BRYAN ON "CAMEL"

PROHIBITION PARTY MAY RUN "PEERLESS LEADER."

SEEKING HIS CONSENT

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Chicago, May 24.—If he will consent to make the race, William Jennings Bryan may be selected as the candidate for president by the prohibition party. Recent statements of Bryan before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Saratoga Springs, in which he was quoted as declaring that he had about reached the point where he could no longer follow a political party which refused to indorse national prohibition, were discussed by prohibition party leaders here today.

They expressed the belief that, if the Democratic national convention at St. Louis declined to adopt a national prohibition plank in its platform, Bryan might consent to become the candidate of the prohibition party for president. The prohibition national convention will be held at St. Paul July 19 to 22, and will be preceded by a rally in the interest of the movement to obtain pledges from 5,000,000 citizens to vote only for candidates for public office who favor national prohibition.

Several Possibilities.

Other candidates for president being considered by the party leaders are: Former Gov. William Sulzer of New York; former Gov. Eugene Foss of Massachusetts; former Gov. J. Frank Hanley of Indiana; Gen. Nelson A. Miles of Washington, D. C., and Richmond P. Hobson of Alabama.

The convention promises to be the most important in the history of the party, in the opinion of the leaders. One suggestion that may come before the convention involves the entire reorganization of the party under a new name.

A referendum vote of the executive committee is now being taken by mail to select a temporary chairman for the convention. Two candidates being considered are W. P. Ferguson of Franklin, Pa., and Daniel A. Poling of Boston.

The convention this year will consist of 1,254 delegates and an equal number of alternates. It is expected that the gathering will draw a crowd of 25,000 visitors to St. Paul.

DR. GRAYSON WEDS TODAY

PRESIDENT WILSON'S AID MARRIES MISS GORDON.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, May 24.—Miss Alice Gertrude Gordon, formerly the ward of President Wilson's wife, is the bride today of Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the navy surgeon who has served as physician in the White House for two presidents.

If reports are true, it was through Dr. Grayson's attachment for the then Mrs. Galt's beautiful ward that the President was brought into intimacy with the present mistress of the White House.

Miss Gordon's home is in this city. That she is quite wealthy was revealed in court proceedings when she succeeded in having her allowance fixed at $25,000 a year. She is a favorite of the President and is called a charming girl by all who are acquainted with her.

She is the daughter of the late James J. Gordon. He died four years ago. He was a world-famous Scotch bridge builder.

Miss Gordon made her debut in Washington two years ago. She has a handsome residence on Sixteenth street which is filled with curios collected by her and her father on their rambles through the old world. Her mother died when she was quite young and she was her father's chum.

Mrs. Wilson calls Miss Gordon by the nickname, "Altrude." The late Mrs. Gordon was born in Virginia, like Mrs. Wilson, and the two families were intimate.

Dr. Grayson is a member of the medical corps, U. S. N. He was the ship's physician on the Mayflower, the Presidential yacht, until President Taft "discovered" him and brought him to the White House. The cheerful doctor is more than a physician. He is the President's trainer and sees that he gets the right kind of food, takes enough exercise and keeps in condition. His word comes pretty near being law at the White House.

Miss "Katrina" Schenck, former conductor of the esteemed "church socials, ladies' aid markets, lodge announcements, dances and society coluymn" in this apple of the people's eye, is very undecided whether to accept as an insult or a compliment a happening to her in a Memphis, Tenn., restaurant.

It was noticed soon after they entered that all the girls in the catering place were looking at her and then gathering in little groups for discussion. Finally one of the number, delegated by the conference, approached her and asked if she were "Miss Theda Bara, the movie actress."

Kate declined the honor with thanks and has been wondering ever since whether she looked like the w—k Miss Bara off stage or in one of the famous roles of vampire, the serpent or other such displeasing casts. She is still seeking light. Condolences or congratulations received with equal gratitude.

Have Red Lights.

After this, warns John Cooper, when a brother who has had a mishap with his car wants us to stop and help him, he must have a red light or some other stopping signal. For one night this week he was coming over the hill south of town he noticed a car stopped by the side of the road. Thinking the driver was in distress he stopped and asked if they needed assistance. A young man in the front seat took his arms from around a young lady sitting beside him and said to her, "Do we need any help, dear?" She replied, "No, you seem to be doing all that can be done."

A "Delilah" at Savannah.

Is the joke on Crawford or Hise? It happened at Savannah May 9 when the Maryville high school baseball team was playing the high school team of that place. About the seventh inning, with two out, Harold Hise got a base on balls.

When the ball was returned to the pitcher Hise stepped off the base the usual distance. Goff Crawford was coaching. Just then one of the girls on the side line said to Crawford, "Look here a minute, I want to take your picture."

Goff said, "Hise, she must mean you." So Hise looked flirtingly at the camera and the girl while the first baseman tagged him out without the least bit of resistance by either Hise or Crawford.

McPherson Was Beloved by His Men and Idolized by His Officers.

AMONG the men whose names are cherished by Union veterans and who are recalled to mind in loving remembrance every Memorial day few stand higher than General James B. McPherson, who was killed near Atlanta in 1864.

Some years ago the late General Andrew Hickenlooper of Cincinnati gave some interesting reminiscences of General McPherson. He said:

"I was chief engineer of McPherson's corps at Vicksburg and saw much of both McPherson and Grant during the siege. I have seen many army officers, but never one like McPherson. There never was anybody like him. Young, handsome and full of enthusiasm, he was the idol of his soldiers.

"You never saw anything like it at his headquarters. He seemed a brother or a simple, good comrade to his officers. He was one of ourselves.

"I cannot describe to you the feeling we had for him. It was something more than the strongest friendship between man and man."

weaving in his brain the images of many years ago. Looking up presently, he spoke again:

"One thing happened that I shall always be sorry for. It is the only thing in the years I knew General McPherson that I have to regret. I had been out all day hard at work in the line of my duties. I came in late to headquarters and felt as though I was too tired to move.

"I thought I would go to bed early. I did so, drawing my blankets up around me. But I had no more than touched the ground and got quiet when General McPherson called me:

"'Oh, Hick!'

"Now, I heard him, and I'm ashamed to remember it, but for the only time in my life I didn't answer. I lay quite still. There were others about the quarters who had been doing nothing that day. 'Let the general call one of them,' I thought to myself.

"Perceiving I did not answer, General Strong spoke up for me and said: 'Hick has been out all day and is just in. I suppose he's asleep.'

"'Oh, yes,' said General McPherson, 'I suppose he is. He must be tired, poor fellow! I didn't think of that!'

"Then the general called some other officer and sent him on the errand. And I lay still, and McPherson never knew but I was asleep. But I was ashamed of it next day, and I have been so ever since. I might have answered him, might have gone out into the night again, tired as I was.

"McPherson was killed not long after that, and I shall always carry with me the regretful recollection that once he called me and I did not answer."

PEACE BY AUTUMN

HIGH ITALIAN DIPLOMAT SEES INDECISIVE ENDING.

WILL NOT CHANGE MAP

Special to the Democrat-Forum.

Zurich, May 24.—The "Neue Zuericher Zeitung" publishes an interview with a high Italian diplomat who passed through Switzerland on his way to Paris. The official who is a former member of the foreign office in Rome, predicts that the war will end before October, but he does not expect a decisive victory for either side.

"The war is entering its final stage," the diplomat said. "Germany and Austria-Hungary was suffering severely from the blockade which cuts them off from the whole world. It is hardly to be expected, though, that hunger will compel them to ask for peace. They will probably manage to hold out until the next harvest fills their empty graneries again.

"Germany may also be able to raise new large war loans and the central powers still have large reserves of men and an unlimited supply of ammunition. Under these circumstances it would be foolish to expect a rapid collapse of our enemies, but I am convinced that peace is nearer than most people believe.

"Within a few weeks a general offensive will be begun by the allied armies on all fronts. The allies are firmly resolved to end the exasperating trench war.

"Whether they will be able to break the German lines I cannot tell, but even if they do not succeed their onslaught will smash the German offensive power completely.

"The Germans could conduct a defensive war for years, if the economic conditions did not sap their strength, and they even might hold out long as things stand, but I am confident that they will give up their struggle when they become convinced that victory is impossible for them.

"The allies, who also are feeling the strain, will have no desire to exhaust themselves simply to destroy the enemy after he acknowledges his defeat."

"I believe that the war will end without greatly changing the map of Europe. The allies will be satisfied if the central powers evacuate the territories conquered by them. Belgium, Serbia and Montenegro will be reconstructed and receive indemnities. This means that the former status will be re-established as far as Europe is concerned, but I do not think the allies will give up the German colonies. Italy will surely get the lost provinces for which she is fighting and the entente will see to it that the German military power shall not threaten the peace of the world again."

Saville of the Eurekans won second place, while Eleanor Richey, Philo, was third.

Music was furnished by the Normal School orchestra. There was a fair crowd in attendance. It is probable that these contests will be held earlier next year, in order that the successful contestants may represent the Normal in the Inter-Collegiate contests.

It is generally felt in Normal circles that the class of work done in the inter-society contests places the Northwest Normal in the ranking among other inter-collegiate schools, second to none.

ENLARGE POSTAL SAVING

$1,000 MAY NOW BE PLACED ON DEPOSIT.

Old $100 a Month Restriction Also Taken Off—Result of Burleson and Dockery Work.

Larger postal savings deposits will now be accepted at the post office. This is made possible by an important amendment to the Postal Savings Act just approved by President Wilson. A postal savings depositor may now have an account amounting to $1,000 upon which interest will be paid. Formerly $500 was the maximum amount he could have to his credit. This enlargement of postal savings facilities will be very gratifying to thousands of depositors who have already reached the old $500 limit and are anxious to entrust more of their savings to Uncle Sam.

Another feature of the amendment that will avoid further embarassment to the public and to postal officials is the doing away with the limit on the amount that could be accepted from a depositor monthly. Under the old law only $100 could be deposited in a calendar month. The amendment abolishes this restriction. While the Postal Savings System has already proved a signal success as is shown by the fact that more than half-a-million depositors have over eighty million dollars standing to their credit, still it has fallen short of meeting the full demands of the public because of the restrictions which have now been eliminated.

Postmaster General Burleson and Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery have been tireless in their efforts to secure a modification of the limitations and the new liberalizing legislation is particularly gratifying to them.

A REALLY BAD BOY

EVERETT T. MASON OF ADA, OKLA., HAS "SOME" RECORD.

FACES SIX INDICTMENTS

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Ada, Okla., May 24.—Everett T. Mason is only twenty-three years old, but he is bad, b-a-d, B—A—D. Everett admits it—in fact, he glories in it. Outside of Jesse James, Cole Younger and divers other boy-time heroes, Everett concludes that he is about the "baddest guy that hit these parts," and officers here admit that Everett has some claim to that distinction.

Everett is now in jail here, awaiting trial for bigamy, grand larceny, highway robbery, assault with intent to kill, reckless driving and resisting arrest.

A little more than a year ago Everett was a student in a business college in Oklahoma City. It was too slow for Everett, so he started out to seek his fortune. He obtained a job as news agent on a 'Frisco train, fell in love with a pretty little seventeen-year-old girl, Miss Mary Hilton, and married her at Oklahoma City.

The books that he read—and sometimes sold—during his railroad career fired his imagination. Married life was too slow. He wanted to be a "devil." So he met another girl, and married her. He took his first license and erased the name of the principal, inserting the last girl's name. It worked fine. Parental blessings from his new parents-in-law, etc.

But still life lagged for Everett. One day he saw a speedy auto, all rakish and highly colored, standing before a hotel. Everett hopped in, "stepped on it," and was gone. Telling his new wife that he had bought the car, they sped away.

In his speeding he drove over a child in Louisiana. He was arrested and brought back to Oklahoma City, gave bond for his appearance for trial, and skipped.

Shot Out of His Pocket.

Two months later Detective Joe Burnett recognized Everett as he was standing in a doorway here. Burnett arrested him, and they were on their way to the station house peaceably enough. Suddenly bullets from an automatic began spurting from Everett's pocket, and in the ensuing melee he got away.

A week ago at the noon hour, a young man walked into the First National bank at Francis, Okla. He wore overalls and a slouch hat and walked briskly, almost jauntily, to the cashier's window.

"What can I do for you?" asked Cashier Rose.

"You can hand out all the dough you got in this here joint," returned Everett, for it was he.

"Good joke," said Rose, as he prepared to turn to his ledger.

"Look here!" suggested Everett. Rose looked—looked squarely in the muzzle of a .44 automatic. Together they gathered up $2,931.67, all the loose currency in sight, and Everett with a whoop, mounted a stolen horse and was away to new fields.

Rose gave the alarm and an auto posse was formed. They soon overtook Everett. A pistol battle ensued, no one was injured and again the boy bandit escaped.

Eight hours later he turned up at Holdenville. He was soaking wet, and the money he tendered in purchase of a new suit, and an auto—Everett had had enough of horses—was wet. He drove to Watonka, where news of the damp money had preceded him, and alighted in the arms of a squad of police.

"Well, I didn't do so bad, did I, Homely?" he said, to the policeman, who conducted him towards the jail.

Everett boasts he will never come to trial.

NEW SODA FOUNTAIN HERE

The new modern soda fountain which the New York Candy Kitchen ordered has arrived and is being put up today. It will probably be ready for use tonight. The new fountain is 20 feet long and has several improvements over the old one. Along with the fountain a large new mirror was put up this morning. Under the fountain are modern coolers and ice boxes.

MEN TALLER IN MORNING.

May Measure Half an Inch More After Breakfast, Marine Examiners Say.

Washington.—Men are taller in the morning than in the evening, medical examiners for the United States marine corps declare, and the applicant for enlistment who is of medium or small stature has a better chance just after breakfast to meet the height requirements than at any other time during the day.

The disks of cartilage between the vertebrae of the backbone yield considerably to the pressure due to the weight of the body when it is erect and expand themselves while the body is in a recumbent position.

This effect may amount to as much as half an inch in the case of a heavy many of, say, five feet ten inches in height, according to the marine corps medical examiners.

FINE DAY TO WED.

Girl Took Van Danacker After She Had a Breath of Spring Air.

St. Paul, Minn.—Wilfred Van Danacker of 459 Webster avenue strolled downtown the other day to keep an engagement with a young woman.

"Wouldn't this be a fine day to get married?" he queried to the young woman.

She took a deep breath of the warm spring air and agreed.

So they were married twenty minutes later by Harry Gallick, the court commissioner.

"I'll bet I get mine when the folks find out," the groom said. "Don't mention Miss—ah, I mean Mrs. Van Danacker's name. She has got to give her boss two weeks' notice."

HUNG HEAD DOWN 48 HOURS.

New York Farmer Was Caught by Feet In Apple Tree.

Binghamton, N. Y.—R. A. Case of Galena was trimming his apple trees recently and slipped while up a tree. His feet caught in a crooked limb, and he hung head downward for forty-eight hours.

He was thought to be dead when discovered, but regained consciousness, and the physicians hoped for his recovery.

Angler Catches a Wildcat.

Lock Haven, Pa.—Wildcats are frightening trout fishers in Wayne township, Clinton county, and when they visit the streams in that section they now go armed. William H. Bierly of Wayne started out recently for McElhattan run, a short distance from his home. He encountered three wildcats along the stream. He made a hasty retreat to his home and returned with his rifle. Two of the cats had disappeared, but he killed the other one.

Wanted to Be Fined.

Portland, Ore.—"I want to be fined. That law ought to be enforced, and I'm willing to pay." E. A. Coe, postmaster at Svenson, Ore., insisted before Federal Judge Bean recently that he ought to be fined. His son had operated a motorboat without having sand aboard to extinguish fire. The judge obliged him $5 worth.

EXPERT EXPLAINS THE FOLK DANCES

Londoner Who Taught Them to St. Louisans Calls Them Evolutionary.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST

Some of Them Will Be Staged in Forest Park, St. Louis, June 5 to 11, as Part of Municipal Shakespearean Celebration.

The folk dances that will be produced each night June 5 to 11, inclusive, and the afternoon of Saturday, June 10, on the dancing green of the new municipal outdoor auditorium in Forest Park, St. Louis, as a feature of the community production of "As You Like It," in honor of the Shakespearean tercentenary, are products of evolution, according to Cecil J. Sharp of London, authority on folk dances and songs, who personally instructed groups of dancers for the St. Louis celebration.

Mr. Sharp was called to St. Louis by the St. Louis Pageant Drama Association, host of the Shakespearean celebration, in order that the folk dancing at that celebration might be of the genuine sort prevalent throughout England and, in fact, throughout Europe in Shakespeare's time.

Folk Dances Undated.

"Folk dances and songs are distinguishable from other dances and songs by the absence of marks of period," explained Mr. Sharp. "They are undated because they were not created in any one generation or, in fact, in any one century, and hence no one of them is the work of any one person. They are results of the combined effort of many persons of many generations. They are products of evolution. They are a survival of the fittest and their real value is as racial expression. They are beautiful because the people who made them did not know that they were making art. Beauty is never made by intention."

The European war has canceled professional engagements which would have required Mr. Sharp's presence in Europe at this time, and he cannot serve in the trenches because outside of the age limit.

"Virtually all my folk dancers are at the front," said Mr. Sharp. "My chief set of six Morris dancers, Oxford and Cambridge men, all have commissions. Most of them entered the army as privates. One of the six has been wounded in battle."

Folk Dancers in the War.

Mr. Sharp showed his interviewer a copy of the English Folk Dance Society's Journal which lists 124 folk dancers of that society known to be at the front, together with the home or university of each, the regiment to which attached and his rank. They include many commissioned officers, two of them majors.

Although he had arrived from England but a month previously, after his fifth trip through the submarine zone, Mr. Sharp referred to the war merely incidentally. The major portion of the interview related to folk dancing and particularly those respects in which it differs from other forms of dancing.

"In folk dancing the legs are not ornaments but supports," said Mr. Sharp. "If I want to go forward and throw a leg forward I defeat my object. The throwing forward of a leg throws me backward. The main movement in folk dancing is very much like that of the runner. Springing and folk dancing have much in common.

Question of Body Balance.

"The movement in all real dancing is a question of body balance, and this is why such dances as these must of necessity be performed on a non-slippery floor. Otherwise the body would always have to be erect. You might just as well ask a skater to do elaborate figures with a blunt pair of skates as ask a folk dancer to dance on a polished floor."

As an additional precaution against slipping, Mr. Sharp dances in shoes having all-rubber soles. He went to his trunk at this point of the interview and produced his dancing slippers. He calls them "sneakers." They are similar to shoes worn by tennis players.

Mr. Sharp said that of the three principal types of folk dancing—morris, sword and country—the morris is by far the hardest to master, owing to the difficulty of using hands independently of feet.

Oldest Dance in the World.

"Technically the morris presents as difficult problems as any dance known to civilization," continued Mr. Sharp. "It is an offshoot of the sword dance, which is the most ancient dance in the world. The sword dance, which is believed to have originated with the Aryans, was a rite by which a sacred animal was killed once a year. It is known throughout Europe, but especially in England. The morris dance, in which handkerchiefs or sticks are used, has almost disappeared. The sword dance is still danced, mostly by miners, in three northern counties of England. Sword and morris dances are usually danced by men, although sometimes by women. Country dances are usually danced by men and women jointly. Morris dances usually are danced by six persons. Sword dances require, some of them five, some six and some eight. Country dances may be danced by two couples or any greater number of couples."

The music of "Way Down Upon the Suwanee River" probably is "from the folk," according to Mr. Sharp.

"That is the one American song that I have heard the music of which is on the folk order," Mr. Sharp declared. "Suwanee River probably is founded on a folk tune."

"How about the words?" he was asked.

"The words are obviously modern," he replied.
